December 28, 2012 - This has been an exceptional year for 11-year-old Vancouver actor Dylan Kingwell, who received critical acclaim for his portrayal of Walter, one of the lead characters in ABC Network's adaptation of The Invention of Solitaire. The coming year was Dylan's first in major television series. Although The Invention of Solitaire ran for just one season, Dylan's impact on audiences will resonate worldwide and he has not stopped working since the pilot's strong "test" on a recent episode of the hit series. Supernatural and Heroes in Home Readings in The Morning TV Pilot (2010). In addition, Dylan can currently be seen in THE CW Christmas television movies this holiday season on LifeTime and the Netflix Channel. The Christmas Show, or Squidward Christmas and Bill & Ted's Christmas.

Dylan's television and film work attracted so much attention this past year that he was invited to appear on the Entertainment Vancouver TV talk show, entertainment, That Talk Show and Breakfast Television.

Dylan has appeared in a variety of commercials for brands such as Manitowoc, Crest, Canada's Tire, Nintendo DSi, Levi's and the McDonald's Every Meal campaign. He has landed many projects, including Home, Blue Diamond, Almond, and Wal-Mart. Dylan also had a role in the Young and Prodigious Silver directed by Jan Perre, James. His other credits include an appearance in The Vancouver People and the Tim Burton feature film Big Eyes.

Despite his very busy schedule, Dylan is a wonderful student and excels in his schoolwork. He enjoys reading and has occasionally participated in the challenge program at school. Dylan loves the outdoors and participates in sports, especially hockey. He is a top level hockey player for Clowdale Minor Hockey and the AAA BC Lightning Spring Hockey Club. Dylan had the opportunity to showcase his hockey prowess on Breakfast Television last spring in their "Hockey of the Week" segment. A shrewd star both on and off the ice...Dylan's teammates call him "Hollywood".

Dylan's personal quote is, Whether next great chance is always right around the corner!
